Start Compromises

The wheels of compromise were started, revolving by the main reservation Republicans early in the day when they held a conference and decided on these positions.

That is, the democrats would allow the completed resolution of ratification which would accept a motion to recommit, thus returning the resolution back before the Senate for changes.

That they would not support a motion to sustain their claim in any ruling barring out the administration's plan for a separate resolution of ratification if the committee proposal had been defeated.

That they were willing to see some modification of the preamble resolution requiring the affirmative consent of other nations to the Senate's qualifications.

That any further compromise negotiations between the democrats must be conducted, not with them, but with the non-vetoed senators.

In these decisions they informed Senators Hitchcock and Lodge with the usual advice to the former to move forward for any compromise he hoped to secure. The conference between the democratic and republican leaders, at which an earnest effort at compromise was understood to have been made, followed immediately.

Senator Lodge

Demands Action

Senators Lodge was asked to have pressed his views action and to have been particularly insistent that the democratic leaders' counter proposals be in his hands tonight so that a compromise could be worked out before the committee's resolution came to a vote. The secret of these proposals was not revealed but they were understood to have been almost identical with the previous requirement to which President Wilson objected vigorously at his White House conference Monday with Senator Hitchcock.

How the present would regard the modifications, negotiations with the republicans broken off, was uncertain but it was hotly urged to write a letter to Senator Hitchcock who, it was thought, will before a conference of democratic senators tomorrow morning.

The modification plan of the democrats is intended to make it possible for the others powers to accept the resolution by mere amendment rather than by a specific exchange of notes. The practical result would be to give the republicans a bill of exchange which could be taken for itself granted unless the other nations protested.

Treaty Closed

To Reservations

At nine o'clock tonight after the Senate had been in continuous session for eleven hours, consideration of amendments of committee of the whole was adjourned, and the Senate was formally recessed to the next day.

The question of amending the fifteen reservations adopted in committee of the whole then was taken up, each reservation being considered separately. An effort by Senator Hitchcock to strike out the preamble requirement for acceptance by other nations was voted down, 45 to 36. On republicans voting for it, Senator Smith for Senator McCombs of North Dakota.

The Senate without a roll call then agreed to all of the fifteen reservations except those relating to monetary domestic questions and the economic boycott. Separate votes were taken on these three reservations.

At 10:15 tonight the vice president adjourned the treaty clause to further negotiations or amendments and the Senate adjourned until noon tomorrow when the ratification resolution will be taken up.

The domestic questions and boycott reservations were agreed to without a roll call after the Senate had eliminated from the former an amendment offered by Senator Hale, republican, Maine, and adopted in committee of the whole, which prohibited United States reserves exclusive jurisdiction over the location of its boundaries. The amendment was withdrawn on motion of Mr. Lodge who said that after mature consideration he believed it went too far.

Resolutions Are Voted Down

Six resolutions all by Senator La Follette were voted down today after a roll call vote.

A resolution by Senator Walsh, democratic, Massachusetts, to declare the League could not harbor free speech or a free press, was rejected, 45 to 36. Six democrats supported it.

By a vote of 52 to 21 the Senate reaffirmed its previous action in refusing the committee's resolution relative to maritime. Senator Hitchcock voted with the majority for the purpose of securing an enabling bill to move for a reconsideration later of that particular deal.

The second vote on the resolution of Senator Reed to remove "American zone and vital interests" was 50 to 33 for rejection. There was no objection from the previous vote of 42 republicans voting for it, and 33 democrats voting for it.

Action in Kansas Causes Concern.

The action of Governor Allen in threatening miners into labor by means of executive authority, was regarded as a serious matter of concern. Harry S. Taylor, president of the National Coal Association, and Fred W. Lukins of Kansas City, president of the Southwestern Coal Operators' Association, conferred with Assistant Attorney General Ames with respect to legal advice.

Mr. Lukins telegraphed Governor Allen that his organization was ready to make wage scales, which may be adjusted later, retroactive to the date on which the miners return to work. Governor he said, will meet with the mine officials of district No. 14 during all of next week for discussions of the new wage contract, and probably after the conference here is adjourned.

"If Governor Allen can get the miners back by next Saturday," said Mr. Lukins, who added that the operators would be justified in seeking an injunction in a federal court if the government gave them back to work.

Other officials expressed the belief that the Kansas miners would not go back unless their demands were fully met.

president of Kansas mines invited to meet Governor Henry L. Allen and discuss the situation, left in doubt to find out the status of affairs of the miners and to which state officials have mining interests will be named immediately.

However, Governor Allen said to night that Dorey had agreed to attend mass meeting of miners here tomorrow. Dorey based his refusal to meet the miners on the ground that he had no authority to discuss the issue of work of the men.

At Miners' Meeting

This evening Governor Allen addressed a miners' meeting at Midway, a camp near here and urged the miners to return to work.

He urged miners to express their willingness to serve as Chairman of the State Mine Commission, representing the operators; and Willard Titus of Glendale, a miner, representing the men. Clarence D. Sample, mayor of Fort Stockton, representing the public, was elected chairman of the commission.

Allen declared that during the period of the war it is hoped that the nation will continue the work along the lines originally laid out.

James Edward Hayes, director of schools and superintendent of the New York office, will preside over the San Antonio meeting, which embraces the States of Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, and Arizona.

Wright to Attend Large Conference

A Community Service Conference will open in San Antonio Thursday, at which Corpus Christi will be represented by Mr. Wright, Director of Community Services for this district.

All persons interested, especially local chamber of commerce committees, have been invited to attend the conference.

Community service, the slogan of Mr. Wright, is not a new thing, but in a dried up area like the Panhandle and West Texas, it has been greatly increased during the period of the war.

It is hoped that the nation will continue the work along the lines originally laid out.

James Edward Hayes, director of schools and superintendent of the New York office, will preside over the San Antonio meeting, which embraces the States of Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, and Arizona.
